

THE NEW DIGITAL HISTORY EDUCATION

THE NEW DIGITAL HISTORY EDUCATION BLOG EXPLORES USING TECHNOLOGY TO TEACH SOCIAL SCIENCES, HUMANITIES, AND HISTORY TO A NEW GENERATION OF YOUNG PEOPLE.

WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 21, 2007

Bilal Rajan, World Saver and Blogger Extraordinaire

Bilal Rajan is one amazing Canadian. At age 4 he started raising funds to help earthquake survivors in India. What started with $350 dollars has grown into a host of charitable events over the years that you can read all about. In 2005 he was named Canada's UNICEF National Child Representative.

This past month he was the featured speaker at the Nova Scotia Social Science Teachers Association conference in Brookfield, NS. His work is an inspiration to thousands of Canadians, both young and old.

Why does this qualify as a Digital History Education story though. Bilal blogs on his own site, <http://www.bilalrajan.com/>. If Bilal can blog about all the work that he is doing, than surely your classroom can start a blog as well. Started this past summer, his blog follows his exploits and seeks to inspire others.

This holiday season take a few moments to read about Bilal in your class, you never know what might be inspired.